04-08 Vulnerable Person Registry

Status: Amended   Issued: 2021.12.08   Replaces: 2021.03.30

Rationale

The Toronto Police Service (Service) Vulnerable Person Registry (VPR) allows for an enhanced police response to vulnerable people who may require emergency assistance. The purpose of this Procedure is to provide clear direction on the use and administration of the VPR.

Procedure

The VPR is a voluntary database that allows citizens to provide important information to the Service about vulnerable members of our community, who by nature of an emotional, medical, psychological or other physical condition may exhibit patterns of behaviour that pose an increased risk of danger to themselves or others.

These patterns of behaviour may include:
– a tendency to wander;
– an inability to communicate;
– fascinations or attractions (body of water, construction sites, landmarks, etc.); or – social responses (fear of strangers, aggressions).

This database allows for an enhanced police response to vulnerable people who may require emergency assistance by ensuring that this vital information is readily available to members reducing the potential that critical information may be overlooked in any emergency response by:
– facilitating a rapid response;
– enhancing problem identification;
– de-escalation of an immediate threat;
– identifying safety issues; and
– providing emergency contact numbers.

The VPR information may include:
– name, physical identifiers, and a photograph (if provided);
– caregiver's contact information;
– nature of the vulnerable person's difficulty or special need;
– behaviours that may be exhibited by the vulnerable person;
– phrases or subjects that may help the vulnerable person remain calm;
– triggers that may upset the vulnerable person; and
– destinations they may go, if they are reported missing

The information contained in the VPR shall only be used for the purpose of locating or interacting with the vulnerable person. The information contained in the VPR shall NOT be:

- used for court purposes, including a show cause or charge synopsis;
- shared with anyone other than a health care professional;
- released through existing records release processes; or
- used for the purpose of creating a wanted person bulletin.

The Primary Report Intake Management and Entry Unit (PRIME) is a dedicated unit that provides members of the public with telephone and online response to non-emergency and administrative calls for service, as outlined in Procedure 04–42. All VPR entries received by the Service that were submitted from members of the public via the Citizen Online Report Entry (CORE) will be initially received and processed by members of the PRIME.

Police Officer – Division

1. When a member of the public who is a parent, legal guardian, person with power of attorney or similar authority attends a division to request assistance in adding a vulnerable person to the VPR shall
    - ensure the reportee has the required authority over the vulnerable person by determining that the nature of the relationship with the vulnerable person is
